To Whom It May Concern:

I am responding to your letter dated June 5, 2017. I can't imagine how you could possibly arrive at the conclusion that my contribution from Barry Loudermilk's State campaign account and my wife's contribution to his federal campaign account could in any way be connected. I served with Barry when he was in the Georgia State Senate and our wives became friends as well as did Barry and I. My wife makes many political contribution each year and I do not direct how, when, or to whom she make those donations. She makes those decisions entirely on her own. I hope this clears up this matter.
